A landmark CBD venue — the best place to make a first impression at the start of semester, and we would like to make it with you.

Meet four universities of first-years at the start of semester

The Sydney Orientation Festival is built around four-university first-years, a landmark CBD venue and on-site conversion. It is both a welcome event for students and a brand's live debut in front of them.

AUDIENCE

1,500+

first-years expected

major Sydney universities

FORMAT

1 Day

Booths + gift bags + activities

01

Real, immediate needs

Students who have just landed in Sydney need food, transport, phone plans, housing, banking and everyday services straight away.

02

The right moment

Reach them around the start of semester and your brand has a real shot at becoming their default choice.

03

Conversion on the floor

Scanning, gifting, questions, group sign-ups and follow-up all happen in one place, one after another.

04

Measurable for sponsors

You get reach, captured leads and a post-event readout, so the spend can actually be assessed.

Four universities, reached in a single afternoon

Sydney CBD

Student Mix

The core Sydney student consumer base

The event serves first-years from USYD, UNSW, UTS and Macquarie, covering the mainstream Chinese-speaking international student community in Sydney — a fit for brands that need awareness built early in the semester.

USYD

A broad comprehensive university; strong uptake for everyday services, banking, telco and food.

UNSW

Concentrated in STEM and business; suits careers, education and technology partners.

UTS

Right in the CBD, so attendance and on-the-day participation run high.

Macquarie

Brings in the northern suburbs cohort, so the event reaches beyond the inner city.

At Sydney Town Hall, your brand gets taken seriously

Venue: Sydney Town Hall

Date: 26 September

Character: professional, formal, easy to reach, built for brand display

A city landmark

It reads as a real venue rather than a campus trestle table — right for a formal launch and for shooting content.

Easy to get to

Town Hall station and the George St retail core sit at the door, so turning up costs students nothing.

Indoors, weather-proof

No weather risk, so booths, gift displays and activities all hold up.

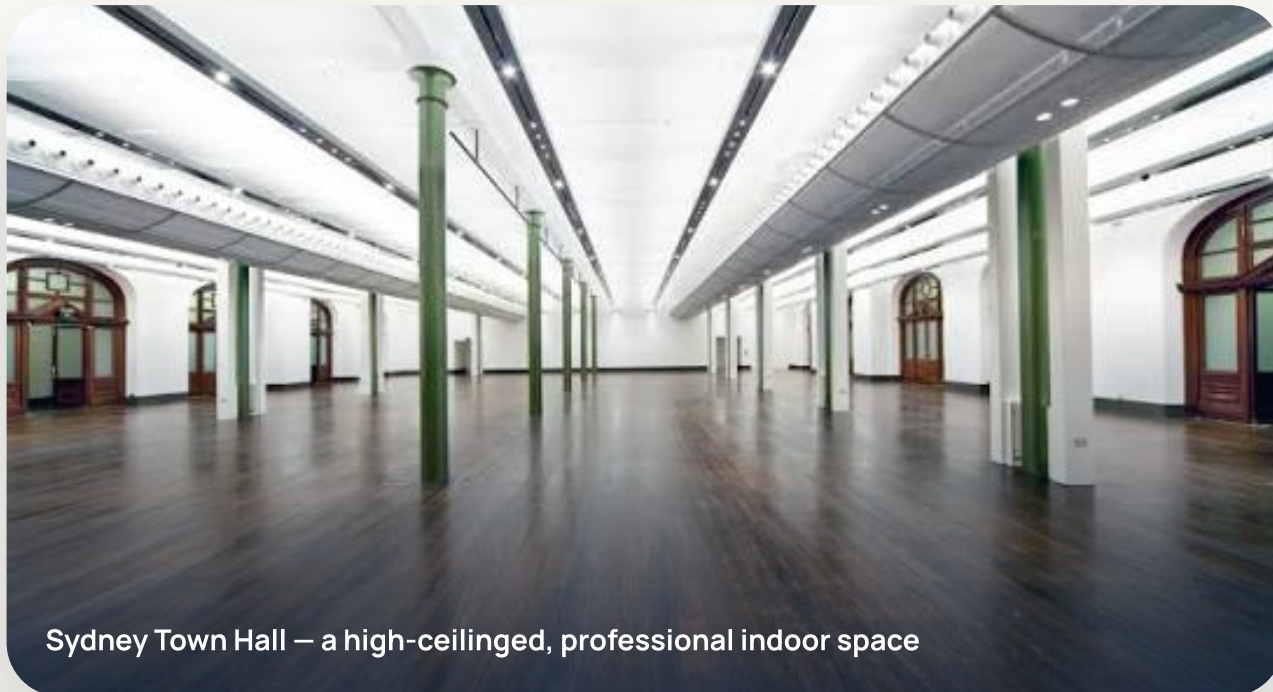

A more professional setting

The room itself lifts the brand — suited to finance, education, lifestyle and service partners.

Sydney Town Hall — a CBD landmark, and a properly formal home for the event.

2:00 PM – 5:00 PM

Getting there

About one minute's walk from Town Hall station, on the George St retail strip, with bus and light rail access.

The space

Lower Town Hall – formal, with clear circulation, and room for large booths and stage programming.

Sydney Town Hall – a high-ceilinged, professional indoor space

Why students turn up, and why they stay

Gift

Free gift bag

The gift bag is the most direct reason to walk in, and it makes the trip feel worth it on arrival.

Play

Activity tasks

Stamp cards, prize-draw entries and booth tasks turn a walk-past into a full lap of the room.

Guide

Practical information

Living in Sydney, studying, job hunting and city resources are all folded into the day, which raises what the event is worth to them.

Social

Meeting people

First-years come for the social side, and that naturally stretches how long they stay and how much they share.

Partner with us and you get more than reach

01

First-mover mindshare

Students are new to the city, so brands are easier to remember and easier to try for the first time.

02

Leads captured face to face

Booth conversations, QR group sign-ups, vouchers and gift pickups turn a glance into something you can follow up.

03

Content that keeps working

Photos, short video, student UGC and our own recap content carry the day into the following weeks online.

PRE-HEAT

| The brands we are looking for

01

Food & lifestyle

Restaurants, bubble tea, delivery, retail and local services — straight into what students buy most often.

03

Education & careers

Courses, language, migration advice and internship or job services sit naturally alongside study and career planning.

If you want reach

Brands racing to build awareness and claim the default-choice position early should take a mid or upper tier for stronger presence.

02

Finance & telco

Banking, payments, insurance, SIM cards and internet plans are the first things students sort out on arrival.

04

Housing & transport

Apartments, rental platforms, furniture, used cars and transport cover the settling-in essentials.

If you want leads

Brands chasing followable WeChat, group or sign-up leads can pair a QR task with group follow-up to lift conversion.

The floor is designed as a path that converts

What matters on the day is not putting brands on display — it is giving students a reason to work through the room stand by stand. Prize-draw entries and task mechanics thread footfall, interaction and scanning together.

01

Check in

Collect a base prize-draw entry and the floor map.

02

Work the booths

Complete brand tasks to earn more entries.

03

Share it

Moments, RED posts and group photos spread the reach.

04

Draw and capture

The most engaged students become leads you can return to.

Footfall spreads evenly

No crowded hot spots and empty corners

Scanning feels natural

Scans are tied to tasks rather than pushed

A readout you can use

Check-ins, scans, tasks and the prize pool all leave data

Mechanics that bring every student into your booth

Check-in entry

One entry on arrival – checking in puts them straight into the draw.

Team bonus

Two entries each for a team of three, three each for a team of five, which pushes students to sign up together.

Stamp card

One entry per sponsor booth scanned, up to eight booths by default.

Social task

Screenshots from RED, Moments or Instagram are reviewed, and approved posts earn entries.

Why this works for sponsors

Every interaction pays out in the same currency – draw entries. To collect more, students form teams, walk the floor, scan and post, which hands sponsors even footfall and followable leads.

A post-event readout

We report on registrations, check-ins, scans, social tasks, winners and sponsor leads, so the spend is more than a booth in a room.

Five tiers, matched to where your brand is

Silver

$1,110

For a first outing — baseline presence and on-the-day interaction.

Recommended

Gold

$2,420

Our recommended tier, balancing reach, on-site resources and pre-event support.

Diamond

$3,740

For partners who want priority placement and a stronger presence.

Premium

$6,000

A Sydney-only premium tier for brands after customisation and category exclusivity.

Title

$8,800

Exclusive event sponsorship — maximum reach, presence throughout, and the only partner in your category.

Common to all tiers

All five are built around a booth at the festival, with increasing levels of pre-event promotion, on-site resources and post-event reporting.

What we would suggest

Gold suits most partners who want both on-the-day contact and content that carries afterwards; Premium is for brands pushing hard on awareness or wanting something close to exclusivity.

TITLE SPONSOR · EXCLUSIVE

Title Sponsor

One brand only · maximum presence

$8,800

Become the exclusive sponsor of the Sydney Orientation Festival: the key visual, the main stage and presence throughout all tied to your brand. One event, one exclusive partner.

Prime booth

The best position and the largest display area, first contact at the main entrance.

Naming rights

Your brand enters the event name and key visual, carried across every channel.

Exclusive stage mentions

An opening address plus repeated MC mentions, for maximum presence in the room.

Category exclusive

No competing brand appears anywhere at the event.

Presence throughout

From the pre-event build-up to the recap, across both networks.

Dedicated report

A custom report on attendance, scans, leads and interactions.

From reach to leads, covered at every step

The same budget covers four universities instead of one

No team to assemble

Promotion, floor design, delivery and reporting, all handled

Four steps from sign-off to the day itself

01

Choose a tier

We talk through your goals, settle the tier and entitlements, and confirm booth and on-site requirements.

02

Assets & promotion

You send logo, collateral and gifts; we schedule the pre-event content.

03

On the day

Booth setup, MC mentions, QR tasks and prize-draw activity, with our team directing the floor throughout.

04

Reporting

After the event you get attendance, scan, lead and interaction data so the spend can be assessed.

Lock it in early

Good positions and naming entitlements are limited, and confirming earlier means a better spot and a longer run-up.

Open to customisation

Naming, a dedicated activity segment, custom gifts and content partnerships can all be combined to suit.

What we have delivered before

Nine years of campus events, official Orientation Week partnerships and custom brand activations are what let us make commitments and keep them.

| Long-standing work with university offices and clubs

Campus

Official Orientation Week partnerships

Each February and July we work with universities directly during O-Week: banners and posters, on-campus flyering, vouchers and gifts, QR sign-ups and new-student group setup.

A single campus can see over 10,000 people in a day.

Working with student clubs

O-Week is the best window for building early goodwill. Partnering with clubs lets a brand reach the right students through activities they already care about, using the networks already inside the campus.

What brand partnerships include

Gift and voucher distribution · sponsor video · interactive Q&A · speaking slots · WeChat adds · sign-ups or app downloads on your platform.

Why Us

Backed by the Course Rep content network, nine years of live events and our student communities, this Sydney event concentrates reach on four-university first-years at the start of semester. Partnership goes beyond online reach: booth activity, MC mentions, group follow-up and post-event data turn attention in the room into leads you can work.
